Managed Print and Document Services

Workplace Productivity

The success of a business or organisation depends on its ability to manage resource and information efficiently.

Being able to produce, store, retrieve and distribute documents efficiently is a key requirement.

SCC Managed Print and Document Services (SCC MPDS) is an expert in helping organisations to create, process and store their documents.

By working with SCC MPDS businesses and organisations benefit from specialist knowledge and expertise, consolidate the number of suppliers that they deal with, and can implement digital workflows. By using new technologies to move from paper-rich environments into digital workflows, you can improve efficiency, reduce costs and implement more agile ways of working for your employees.

Working with SCC MPDS accelerates your digital transformation, and helps you to build a sustainable competitive advantage.

Making digital workflows a reality

Organisations are having to adapt to the digital transformation that is affecting their workplaces. By 2025 the millennial generation will represent 75% of the workforce, and mobile workers will account for 60% of that. However, by that time 64% of businesses believe they will still be using paper-based processes, and only 40% of organisations feel they are prepared to support the millennial and generation Z workforce.

By working with SCC MPDS, you benefit from our years of experience and know-how, so you can accelerate your digital transformation. We will optimise your operations without compromising your business processes or the bottom line. SCC has long enabled digital innovation by supporting our customers to embrace digital workflow technologies, and drive productivity and business growth while reducing costs.

Managed Document Services case study

SCC MPDS carried out comprehensive due diligence for a global, UK-based law firm, and found that they were outsourcing nearly 50% of their reprographic requests at a considerable cost. Although document production facilities existed on-site, a lack of expertise meant that they were not being fully utilised.

SCC MPDS implemented a digital transformation strategy, which saved £400k within the first year of the contract. The introduction of digital working methods resulted in faster review of information, and less time wasted reading non-permanent information, which has significantly increased productivity. Digital document management has also facilitated greater compliance with industry regulations, ensuring that electronic documents are disclosed in the correct manner.
