

Lenovo: Remote Working Bundles

Lenovo[™]

Lenovo: Technology in Focus

With the right kit, designed specifically to address the challenges of remote working, you can create a productive working environment in just about any space. Lenovo helps you do just that, with bespoke technology designed in response to the upward trend in remote working and now being used by organisations across the world as entire workforces are sent home to comply with social distancing measures.

Lenovo delivers versatile and powerful devices that are vital for working remotely. It also provides pre-bundled accessory products to help significantly boost productivity, with additional accessories including travel-ready productivity and connectivity, essential wired keyboards and mouse combos, USB hubs, and Bluetooth speakers, all offering cross-compatibility with technology from all other vendors.

By adding the right accessories to your core workstation technology, you can accomplish even more, with Lenovo accessories empowering people to improve productivity and enhance remote working experience, wherever they are. Against the backdrop of fast-moving and unpredictable pandemic, the flexibility to seamlessly adapt to your workspace has never been more important.
