The challenges and the opportunity

ESG and sustainability software for every stage of your decarbonization journey.

Companies are recognizing the value that operating in a more sustainable and socially responsible manner can deliver. As they work to deliver on sustainability commitments, they face mounting pressure from regulators, investors and consumers to demonstrate progress on these measures in a robust and verifiable way. In fact, corporate social responsibility and environmental sustainability risks tied as the third highest concerns for organizations, as ranked by large corporations in a 2021 Forrester report.

As companies deal with continuous disruptions and challenges to business operations and supply chain management, building resilient business processes has never been more important to the enterprise. To ensure a positive impact on people, the planet and business profitability, industry leaders are looking to accelerate sustainability initiatives around five key imperatives.

1. Climate risk management and environmental, social and governance (ESG) reporting
2. Resilient infrastructure and intelligent operations
3. Intelligent supply chain management
4. Emissions and energy management
5. Sustainability strategy

As these areas become more critical to the performance of your company, you need tools to help you identify and track the implementation of energy efficiency and emission reduction opportunities, consolidate data and streamline reporting. Envizi, an IBM company, offers a comprehensive, modular sustainability software as a service solution to drive ESG and sustainability reporting and performance management.

Highlights

Comprehensive reporting and management of ESG indicators

Automates collection and consolidation of more than 500 data types

Automates feedback between ESG initiatives and operational endpoints

Delivers insights to optimise investment decisions and assess risk

A smarter way to navigate your sustainability journey

Envizi's software automates the collection and consolidation of more than 500 data types and supports major sustainability reporting frameworks.

Its user-friendly visualizations and interface and easily customised dashboards enable you to analyze, manage and report on environmental goals, identify efficiency opportunities and assess sustainability risk. Envizi's solutions help streamline the management of these tasks as part of broader ESG reporting initiatives, while also providing valuable sustainability insights to inform business strategy.

Whether you are on the sustainability team, heading up energy management, working in procurement and finance, responsible for facilities and asset management, or a C-suite executive, Envizi provides the insight you need.

IBM + Envizi: Powerful alone. Better together.

By using Envizi with IBM's broader AI-powered software, companies will now be able to automate the feedback generated between their corporate environmental initiatives and the operational endpoints being used in daily business operations—a crucial step moving beyond reporting to performance.

For instance, Envizi will integrate with:

IBM Maximo® asset management solutions which help companies extend the life of their critical assets, reduce environmental impact by providing intelligent asset management, monitoring, predictive maintenance and reliability in a single solution.

IBM Environmental Intelligence Suite (EIS)
which helps companies increase resiliency by assessing and planning for the impact of environmental conditions on their operations, assets, and supply chains. EIS and Envizi, together were praised in the Verdanix Carbon Management Quadrant, which positioned IBM as a leader in this area.

IBM Tririga Application Suite
Manage real estate portfolios across their lifecycle with an intelligent asset management solution for integrated workplace management
